

Welcome to our new direct service to Osaka, Japan.

Osaka makes for an exhilarating escape for those who are looking to experience both the modern and traditional sides of Japanese culture. As home to several major technology companies, it's also a popular destination for business travellers, as well as an accessible gateway to the rest of Japan.

British Airways' brand-new service between London and Osaka is launching in April 2019. There will be a choice of four flights a week on board the airline's Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner. Combined with its airline partners, the new service will bring the total number of flights between Europe and Japan to over 90 from April 2019.

Welcome to Osaka

From ancient shrines to neon signs, Osaka is a city of contrasts that blends traditional Japanese culture with a vibrant modern metropolis.

By day, visitors can explore the Osaka Castle area with its museums, picturesque park and shopping area; ride the rollercoasters at Universal Studios; watch kittens play at their feet at an animal café or shop for everything from Engimono (lucky charms) to electronics at the city's many shopping areas.

By night, Osaka's glittering nightlife offers something for everyone. The high-class bars, clubs and restaurants of Ginza contrast with the neon-lit night spots of Dotonbori. There are also theatre and stand-up comedy performances for English-language speakers, as well as modern and classical music recitals in Umeda's symphony hall.

The British Airways Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner

The new route will be served by one of the airline's most advanced aircraft, the Boeing 787. Its smooth-ride technology makes for a more comfortable journey with less turbulence. Lower pressurisation results in cabin air that is less dry; perfect for reducing the effects of jetlag.

A wide choice of on-demand films, as well as television and audio programmes are available for viewing on each customer's personal flat screen. Comfortable ergonomically-designed seats, complimentary meals and a full bar service will also be available on board.
